

Anthony Bonner

Inspired to impact people through the gospel of Jesus Christ

Anthony Bonner is a former professional basketball player who was a 1st round draft pick (23rd) in the 1990 NBA Draft. He has played in the NBA (Sacramento Kings, New York Knicks & Orlando Magic) and abroad throughout Europe amassing a 16 year career. A native of St. Louis, Missouri, Anthony attended St. Louis public schools through high school before earning a basketball scholarship at St. Louis University. He graduated with a degree in Communications.

As a Minister (Author/Speaker) and founder of TruthTurnup International Ministries, Anthony travels the world sharing the transforming power of the word of God. Whether in the sanctuary or in a prison, on Wall Street or in a university locker room, Anthony uses his influence and the game of basketball as a platform to share the gospel of Jesus Christ. Anthony is a witness of God's endless grace and lives by the scriptural foundation, "For with God nothing shall be impossible" (LUKE 1:37). Anthony is inspired to impact the lives of people through the gospel of Jesus Christ; ultimately making a positive impact on our culture.
